I strongly support LD 1454. Gun laws were written assuming that people would be buying guns that were made by gun manufacturers. They could not have anticipated gun kits or 3 D machines. If these guns are used in a crime, they are untraceable. I am particularly concerned because plastic guns do not set off metal detectors. Our country decided long ago that guns should not go on planes. We have spent a fortune on personnel and machinery. Why would we allow guns to by-pass this security? While I would prefer a national law, at least we should protect Maine residents and visitors. As a state that promotes tourism (including hunting), we should ensure we are doing the most possible to protect those who visit.
