

Janet Drew
York

I guess this is a start

It will take real working crisis intervention teams, and mentors & support alternatives in communities to change the criminal Injustice system punitive culture that persists in US policing & prosecutors' jobs. A recent un report sites racism in US policing & the crime of genocide. Yes we need training but we better do more than talk about it. A little less weapons training and less focus on militarization would be helpful too