Please bring Parole back to the State of Maine. Steven Clark has been instrumental in bringing and implementing programs in which to one can be absorbed back in to society and be a productive member. My son is one Steven Clark taught. In turn my son took those programs to minimum security to become part of the prison system curriculum. These men worked hard to become leaders in thought and action and should be allowed to prove themselves as viable human beings. The cost to the tax payers for Profit Communities such as Prison systems for viable hard working men and women is too much for the state of Maine to bear.
