

catherine field
Dresden
LD 178

As a retired high school teacher and a many-year member of the recovering community in Maine, I have seen first hand the human and community benefits of supervised and guided re-entry. The opportunity to participate in, and contribute to, society is an investment in the individual, and pays dividends to families and society on a human and financial level. I urge passage of LD178.