

Beth Piper
New Gloucester

As a parent of a child who has an IEP, it has always been a struggle to get teachers to understand our child's learning style and to get her the accommodations she needs. Because some of her disabilities are "hidden" and she can hide them well, we have had to fight to get her accommodations met every step of the way. This bill will give us a stronger voice. As a professional who often sits with parents advocating for their children and their needs, again this bill will give them a stronger voice in accommodations and ensuring their child gets their needs met.