I support LD 1664. All Maine students should receive an education that includes honest and truthful lessons about US History, including narratives by Black, Indigenous, and People of Color. Our current US History material is fettered to misinformation and is creating yet another generation of ill-informed graduates that will have to catch up after graduation. As adults we are actually having to re-learn US History on our own. Those who aren't interested in doing that personal development work, are left ignorant of the truth, believing a fairy tale narrative where the white guys are the heroes of the story. I think we can all agree that American heroes come in all colors and genders.
