

Christopher Robinson
Hope

It is essential for our children be taught the lessons of history in order not to repeat it. This is especially true of the Holocaust and genocides that have been perpetrated against different groups of people around the world. Slavery was and still is an abomination that needs to be abolished. People need to be told the truth of history to prevent these tragedies from repeating themselves.