Regarding LD 2107: I just recently went through the application process for an in-state post graduate program and had to go through the fingerprinting process for the DOE, despite having done so already for DHHS for my current position (a lead educator in an early childhood agency).

In my career, low-wage impacts and work fatigue have already had significant effects on my life and many of my colleagues, requiring meticulous fragmentation of my money and time outside of work. Having to go through this unnecessary process twice wastes not only my time and limited budget, but the time and resources of our fingerprinting provider(s) for the state of Maine.
