

Christopher Maloney
Augusta
LD 2107

As both an educator and someone who runs a teen center, I must pass a more rigorous background check for my current position than what is required by the DOE. But there is no communication between DHHS and DOE, which means redoing the background check process or allowing my teaching credential to lapse. It's unnecessary and leaves me concerned about the lack of communication between two organizations who should be in constant dialogue.