I heartily support increasing post-secondary educational opportunities for citizens, such as my son, with IDD.

We fought through his school years for inclusion, and for the opportunity to earn a diploma; we encouraged him to study hard, and to put in the work: all this to find a lack in post-secondary options for him here in Maine.

I think we all understand the value of post-secondary education, and would encourage you all to extend this value to this population.

Thank you.
