Utilities, Technology,

The LS Power transmission line proposal, although not on on my property, would have run closely parallel to my 10 acres of land. The close proximity of the line would keep me from ever utilizing my land (to expand my sheep farm), as our property is long and narrow. The use of Eminent Domain against my property would, I'm quite sure, be used as the lines picked up more power in the future, and the corridor would need to be widened.

The "safe zone" was so close to my house that I literally wouldn't be able to build the planned mother-in-law edition that we have planned.
