Re: L.D. 922: An Act To Help Cancer Patients with Fertility Preservation

Dear Senator Sanborn, Representative Tepler, and Members of the Committee:

The Bureau of Insurance takes no position on LD 922. The purpose of this letter is to provide you with background information. The bill would require health insurance carriers to provide coverage for fertility preservation services when necessary cancer treatment may directly or indirectly cause infertility for policies issued on or after January 1, 2022.

Since 2014, states have been required to defray the costs of all mandates included in Qualified Health Plans, unless those mandates are required as part of the essential benefit package. The Affordable Care Act (ACA) directs states to make payments either to the individual enrollee or to the insurer. Generally, any mandate adopted by a state after December 31, 2011 has been excluded from the essential benefit package by federal regulators and thus is subject to the requirement for the state to defray the cost. However, if this bill is determined by federal regulators to be the expansion of an existing mandate rather than a new mandate, it is our understanding that the state would not have to defray the cost.

Title 24-A M.R.S. § 2752 provides for a review and evaluation of a mandated benefit proposal by the Bureau of Insurance before the bill may be enacted. These reviews include an evaluation of the financial impact, social impact and medical efficacy of the mandate. If a report is required, it could cost the Bureau up to $13,500 for outside contract consulting work, plus staff time (estimated at a cost of $1,600) to collect information, review consultant work, and prepare the final report. We anticipate that current resources will allow us to conduct up to two studies during the current session, and we will need eight weeks for each report to ensure a high-quality evaluation.
