All you need to do is place your trust in the Living Word of God.
You know this is wrong and not intended by our Creator.

These children will suffer and you will be the cause.

The unborn beating hearts have a right to this life. How can you make such decisions?

Acceptance will come from support in knowing who God made you, not in trying to change your body to think that will make a person more accepted.

Repeating, probably. But at some point it must be recognized that this is monstrous behavior.

I pray you will come to realize this crime you are promoting. I pray you find Jesus.
Please leave God's children alone.
