

Henry Geoffrion

Hello, I am a caseworker for a youth homeless shelter in Maine and these laws, as is, negatively impacts my job and level of care I can provide to our clients. The 30 day rule does not influence individuals ability or interest in getting housed and serves no purpose other than endangering our cliental. The time and energy spent preparing them and finding them other resources for that one night, not to mention the worry for their safety, could be directed into actual progress with their needs. The current law also does not give caseworkers adequate disgression around minors. If one is fleeing their home, extending the time allowed to wait for notifying their guardian is an easy way we can help protect these individuals and let proper channels assess the danger they could be in if the family knew their whereabouts. It is frusterating to try and do my job and provide the help that this vulnerable population needs with these outdated and downright irresponsible laws in effect. It is for these reasons I support LD1076. Thank you.

Henry Geoffrion
Georgetown

Henry Geoffrion

Hello, I am a caseworker for a youth homeless shelter in Maine and these laws, as is, negatively impacts my job and level of care I can provide to our clients. The 30 day rule does not influence individuals ability or interest in getting housed and serves no purpose other than endangering our cliental. The time and energy spent preparing them and finding them other resources for that one night, not to mention the worry for their safety, could be directed into actual progress with their needs. The current law also does not give caseworkers adequate disgression around minors. If one is fleeing their home, extending the time allowed to wait for notifying their guardian is an easy way we can help protect these individuals and let proper channels assess the danger they could be in if the family knew their whereabouts. It is frusterating to try and do my job and provide the help that this vulnerable population needs with these outdated and downright irresponsible laws in effect. It is for these reasons I support LD1076. Thank you.