Senator Claxton, Representative Meyer, and Members of the Health and Human Services Committee,

For the last two years, COVID constraints have been used to corral the collective into respective categories. The bureaucratic bifurcation of Maine families, with the use of labels such as masked versus unmasked, essential versus nonessential, vaxxed versus unvaxxed, etc., to say the least, has been brazenly discriminatory.

Diversity and inclusivity be damned!

The overall level of malfeasance perpetrated under the guise of public good (i.e., the complete tanking of Maine commerce...the bludgeoning of restaurants, hotels, small businesses, hospitals, etc.), and the utter flatlining of "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness" by Governor Mills and her minions (i.e., Nirav, his gumshoes at the CDC, and their litany of COVID protocols) has proven both downright oppressive and transformative.

The irony that these purveyors of abortion, sodomy, euthanasia, profligate governmental overreach, and illegal immigration, all for the most part who share a seat at the table of complicit compulsory corona countermeasures, is not lost on me; while claiming to be about freedom, namely, the concept of "choice", they gleefully embrace societal downfall, destruction, and death.

They are the ones with their grubby little hands gripped tightly around the jugular, restricting precious lifeblood from all that is good, true, and beautiful. They are metaphorical Jeffrey Dahmers, Ted Bundy types, who get off on the domination of others.

After yours truly was recently addressed at the DMV by a test examiner for refusing to don a COVID mask, I couldn't help to emphasize the irony. His boss, Secretary of State Shenna Bellows, a leading proponent of homosexual marriage in Maine, has made it a point that would-be patrons of the DMV cover their face before conducting business with the state.

You see, masks must be worn, or else!

I couldn't help imploring the proctor to answer which he thought posed a greater societal threat, unobstructed respiration, or sodomy.

Why do you suppose the same group advocating for COVID controls (for the most part) have no qualms with rectal frolicking?

These people will go to great lengths to celebrate "pride" every year (in the name of diversity) while simultaneously exerting similar effort to muzzle COVID nonconformists.

It is now abundantly clear, for those with eyes to see, that the COVID agenda was never about public health. It was always about control.

Given the following:

To date, Comirnaty is the only "vaccine" to have received FDA approval and it isn't available in the United States.

The current offerings from Moderna, Janssen, and Pfizer fall under "Emergency Use Authorization".

Big Pharma continues to operate under one hell of a liability shield while raking in billions.

Jab related deaths (conservative estimates suggest hundreds of thousands) and injuries (over a million) continue to mount.

It is more than reasonable to conclude that a vehement pumping of the brakes (regarding compulsory jabs) is in order.

For what it's worth,

James Mosher
