My mother received her Pfizer vaccines and booster.

With the first shot on March 4 of 2021 she had no reaction that she noticed besides tenderness in the area of the injection.

With the second shot she had vertigo for about one month with frequent visits to the ER. She also had problems with high and low blood pressure which she never had before the second shot.

With her booster shot this fall, she has had pain in her chest with any exercise. Even when she is sitting to knit or do crafts she gets chest pain. The doctor is doing a trial of nitroglycerin but said if that doesn't solve the problem they will schedule a catheterization to explore what the issue may be.
