

Andrew Konopka
Milford
LD 214

I feel that the state legislature does not have the right to dictate how individual towns manage their zoning laws and regulations. Local people should be able to determine what direction their town takes as far as housing density, open space and commercial development. Every county and community in the State of Maine needs to be evaluated individually.