Companies in Maine that Support the Humane Cosmetics Act

The following stakeholders of the personal care products industry are located within Maine and support the Humane Cosmetics Act (HCA), which would prohibit the manufacture and the sale of animal-tested cosmetics in the United States. This federal legislation has the support of 335 independent companies such as COTY, Madison Reed, Overstock.com, Paul Mitchell, Proctor & Gamble, Seventh Generation, and Unilever in addition to nearly 600 member companies of the Personal Care Products Council (PCPC). *An asterisk indicates that these companies have supported through their PCPC membership.

The full list of 335 independent companies that endorse the Humane Cosmetics Act can be found here.

First Impact New York*, New Gloucester

Product formulation for cosmetics companies. Expertise in regulatory compliance to comply with relevant laws, policies, and regulations.

Greentech USA, Inc.*, Yarmouth

Develops and produces active ingredients from plants, algae, micro-algae and biotechnology in cosmetic, pharmaceutical and nutraceutical fields. The active ingredients from local and worldwide raw materials for small local and top cosmetic companies are produced daily in their factory.

Lotus Garden Botanicals, Biddeford

Manufactures and sells essential oil blends used for perfumes, aromatherapy, and bath and body products.

Lush, Portland

Manufactures various personal care products outside of Maine and sells within the state at their brick and mortar store and online.

Maine Hempworks, Naples

They manufacture and sell soaps, lotions, lip balm and beard oil.

One Earth Natural Food Store, Shapleigh

Retailer with a brick and mortar location in Shapleigh. They sell groceries, vitamins/herbal supplements, pet care, gifts, clothing and cruelty-free personal care products.

SaltyGirl Beauty, Biddeford

Cosmetics company that sells foundation, lipsticks, glosses, body care and haircare.

True North Beauty, Milo

Manufactures and sells luxury skincare products.