

Cynthia Talbot
Wells

There is no need to sell cosmetics that experiment on live animals. Many companies offer alternative cruelty free products that actually offer better results with less complications to humans and include healthier ingredients .