I'm the Executive Director of Penobscot Theatre Company in Bangor, ME. We've produced an entire season of digital theatre. We did this to keep our staff and artists employed and working. We're only making 7% of our regular ticket sales. Ticket Sales account for 70% of our budget. We need a devoted arts fund to help us weather the next year. The loss of an entire year of income will affect us for years to come. For the first time in seven years, we will operate at an extreme deficit. We employ 15 full time people and over 150 artists every year. People rely on us. These are dangerous times for live theater. We need your help.
