

Kaleb Bickford
Rome
LD 716

Removing any form of predator control will be counter productive. Allowing to population to grow. And cause issues. Not only to wildlife. But for our farmers. As it stands many landowners already contact and reach out to local hunters for help with predator control. You can see it on almost all the town facebook groups.

I believe coyote population in Maine should remain a year round thing.