

Caleb Wade
Canaan
LD 716

Attacking Maine heritage needs to stop, hunting coyotes is one way us Mainers use to help control the predation on wildlife and livestock. Many Mainers rely on keeping the coyote numbers down so they can guide for a living. The deer, turkeys, and snowshoe hare do take a huge hit to the population because predation from coyotes. Guides that rely on that business will be risking losing it all.