

Mark Cowperthwaite
Thomaston
LD 492

LD492 is a common sense appeal to the wisdom handed down from ages past, indeed as outlined in the Holy Bible as God's command and pattern for society. Children reside under the care and authority of their parents and, except in limited circumstances of abuse, the state has no business interfering with the provision, protection, or teaching of children. In short, God commands children to obey their parents, and for parents to train and prepare their own children. It's not the duty or privilege of the state to interfere with parent's rights.