The drafters and sponsors of this bill want to ban gender affirming care claiming it is mutilation to under go surgeries, however they are perfectly fine with religious mutilation of genitals on infants who can not speak and can only cry.

They will play dumb and pretend they don't know what I am talking about, so I will spell it, "circumcision". There next asserted claim will be, "it's for medical reason" even though as infant there is no medical justification for this procedure IE tight foreskin.

Circumcision on infants done for religious reason are really being done for cosmetic reasons so son looks like father, circumcision is mutilation. Does not matter if "a little bit is being cut off" the body, it is still being mutilated/altered.

As far as hormone treatments I will add my back story, but going to add the Estrogen I speak of, I started producing at 12, at 15 I started producing testosterone. The hot flashes I got at 15 is what told me I was producing estrogen as well as the breasts I grew at 12. So bills like these would of forced me to go thru the dual puberty I was forced to go thru as it would of prevented me from blocking the testosterone or estrogen.

I was born in a way that my body produces male level testosterone, and female level estrogen. My estrogen fluctuate like a women's estrogen does, I have a cycle in which I get monthly cramping like pain accompanied with bleeding, I ovulate as well.

The doctors and specialists are baffled.
