LD 66

I would urge you to vote OUGHT NOT TO PASS on LD66. This is asking for payment of undefinable losses to an employee. If you let them go, for whatever reason, even poor workmanship, lack of attendance, poor quality of work, etc, you will be assessed an amount that they or a lawyer feels they should get for some imaginary amount they can say it is worth. It is intangible, you can't really say what it might be, just that it COULD BE something of value. This has to be paid by the employer who finds this person as unfit for their employment. Really strange as I read it. Perhaps the new rule is poorly written and presented, but as I read it, it OUGHT NOT TO PASS! Thank you!
