

Audrey Cannan
Casco

Reducing benefits of those qualified robs people of their earnings. I work two jobs to make ends meet, to keep my head above water. It is unfair to deny me access to my benefits because I also chose to serve in public education.
The formula to determine earnings and benefits does not reflect fairness. How can I possibly encourage another generation to begin a career in public education/service, knowing the retirement debacle they will face should this continue?
Do the right thing.