

Jason Joyce
Swan's Island

I am one of 7 oyster farmers on Swan's Island and we are all concerned that the vagueness of this Id could end up negatively affecting our small oyster farms.

The process currently utilized by the state in our opinion is as complicated as needed, in fact simplifying the process would be a better approach considering the complexity of a lease application.

The more difficult the process becomes, it will disproportionately effect the small operations since we are the labor force, the secretary, research and development, and the one who pays the bills.

The large operations have more depth and can much easier operate successfully in a more regulated atmosphere.

Thank you,
jason