

Susan Stalburg
Hancock

My husband and I live across from Acadia National Park on West Shore Road in Hancock. We chose this location for many reasons, one of which is the property has been in my family, but also because I love Frenchman Bay, for its pristine beauty and abundant wildlife. Frenchman Bay and its working waterfront are an important part of living in Maine. That is why LD 1211 is so important to all of us: we need a balance between the development of our aquaculture, in its many varied applications, and conversation.