This bill creates standards that no other industry in Maine is required to uphold, and indeed, no other method of food production. It is clearly an intentional attempt to make land-based aquaculture impossible in our great state. This type of protein production is already active in places like New York, Wisconsin, & Florida with projects planned or in construction in numerous other states. The provisions in this bill will bar Maine from being able to contribute to the contribution to domestic, healthy food production using one of the most efficient methods at our disposal.
