If a Legislature could be counted on to operate from one set of facts, I would support some of the proposed roll-backs. However, when the majority of Republican's still believe that President Biden "stole" the election, even in the face of 60 lawsuits having been thrown out as meritless, I simply cannot trust that party to make an informed, let alone intelligent, decision. Facts are facts. The nonsense around voter fraud that is driving voter suppression proposals across the Nation, and in Maine as well, are founded on the "Big Lie". I have been a lifelong Republican, but also a person who operates based on truth and facts. The present Republican Party is unrecognizable from what it was a few decades ago.
