

Christopher Molda
North Berwick

Dear committee members & chair,

I do not support this bill & it ought not to pass. As a doctor I can speak to the science of brain development & what we know is human brains are not fully wired for higher level thinking, like the weighted decision of elections, until at least their mid-to-late twenties. 16 year olds are intelligent, and capable of doing many things but scientifically their decisions are more often based on emotion & social acceptance, as their frontal cortex is not fully wired for higher level decision making.