

Rhonda Reed
Winslow

I feel that this bill 'ought not to pass'. There is no sound reason to permit more government involvement in our lives and there is no sound reason for prohibiting firearms at the voting place. Maine is one of the safest states in the nation and we do not need this to be a law. If people are afraid of violence at the voting place let's outlaw cars that can be driven into crowds or knives, etc. This bill is not needed and is overreach.