The inspection system has degenerated into a "who you know system" in lower income house hold of Maine. Every town I have ever been to and bought vehicles in has "That Garage" that for $100 and a case of beer will put a sticker on anything. In the past 15 years I have bought 7 vehicles all on the road with a legal "That Garage" sticker. Every single one for the price of $500 or less with a 6 month old sticker or less. Holes on frame you can put your fist in. Some with no rear bumper cause the entire rear frame rail is gone. All things that passed inspections for years. I fix them up and get them inspected at a trusted local shop that has no problem failing an inspection and telling me why. This change would change nothing and be putting money in the pockets of "That Garage" in every town in Maine.
