

Dan Lyne
Cumberland
LD 1750

We all live in Maine because we value nature. A rail trail will give the maximum access to the most citizens, including those who would otherwise find it difficult, if not impossible, to experience the outdoors. I am not aware of any study that suggests rail trails promote undesirable behavior. This is an opportunity to do good. Let's take advantage of the opportunity. Now, not in some hypothetical future.