As a long distance runner, I can't imagine a more inviting place to run, unbothered by cars and trucks, for miles and miles.

I also imagine that a protected long distance pedestrian route such as this would be a revenue generator for the towns it connects, as a route for marathons, half-marathons, and other shorter races. Not to mention the tourism draw that long distance pedestrian and bike trails create (think of Bar Harbor's Carriage Roads networks).

Thanks for your time and effort in considering safe pedestrian and bike routes for Maine.
