

lyisa Anderson-Wright
Northfield

I am participating to ensure that the Maine people are considered as important and vital to maines growing economy and deserve equal and fair shares of the market available to provide medicine to those who choose to treat their conditions with medical cannabis affordably, and privately in their rural locations. Small producers should be able to produce more together the needs of their consumers as well as increase their business by providing quality medicine to other caregivers. Quality and safe medicine is grown by small producers and their patients should never fear a lack of medicine. For many patients it is dire necessity to reduce the symptoms of their conditions and travel to another town or district is difficult, if not unafgordable and mpossible.