

Matthew Wellwood
Sanford

LD 421 is very important not just home caregivers but for the whole cannabis community. We have been making the commercial growers the main focus of production when home caregivers offer just as much or more when it comes to giving patients the right medicine. It is not fair for towns to dictate where us small growers cultivate medicine and the size of our grows and plant count. The rules put in place especially in Sanford are impossible to do caregiving at home. They push the little growers into commercial space which is not right. We need to expand the square footage and plant count for home caregiving in order to sustain equality in the cannabis community and to offer more to smaller businesses and have that close one on one patient relationship. More plant count is a baby step towards the right direction and hopefully we will see more additional expansions to home caregiving.