LD 1422

Consumed and concerning LD-1422 by Joe Baldacci, I plead all my innocence in life as I am "not guilty". Ranked Choice Voting is a blessing to Maine and any other state that ratifies. Why do politicians want to abandon this order? - Is my question now. I am registered and on the ballot for "write-in" candidate for Republican Governor of Maine. Now I know why RCV is so precious to democracy. The "people" have not completely felt the pleasure in being inclusive to a General election ballot.

Candidates from all over Maine that feel themselves so qualified as to speak with Ethics Commission, register for your favorite office and campaign have some hope that democracy for each one of them will be savory by the sheer volume of RCV or Ranked Choice Voting counting procedures at the ballots. Simple to me now; quite good for democracy. When the "people" lose faith in democracy what is there to show they have tried and gained a few votes in the primary election? Candidates get their fair share of the statistics then; and the top candidates are included in the General election to come. I tell you Maine, when the people realize politicians are trying to stop that process of RCV at the ballot, they will eventually realize that a candidate in the future might not get any good votes to show for all the efforts in running a pure, home aid, legitimate campaign in Maine. RCV is precious; thanks senator Joe Baldacci. God Bless the cool people of Maine. Sheppard for Governor- the Republican that proves the Democratic party is so historical and true to the state of Maryland to begin a greater Republican party for the rest of America aside from Maine- the state I love as a Republican sophist. Rome has come again; will the senate reveal a provision for anything better than RCV?
