

Nate Burdick
Porter
LD 1620

The testing requirements need a re-understanding of how the plant world considers total yeast and mold. There are beneficial microbes everywhere and organic, clean cannabis can easily fail. Raising the TYM is a step in the right direction but Id love to see the state work with more experts in this area.