Subjecting medical Cannabis cultivators to such strict testing standards will eliminate the various brands that create clean quality products that cannot afford to pay the insanely high costs that will build up due to having to test every single product. This will leave nothing but giant corporations that care solely about the money, not the patient or their health. If this bill passes it will ruin the Maine Medical cannabis market and quality, as patients we want quality products made with care that specify and fit our needs, not mass produced products that are poorly made and not put under any quality control protocols. The small business are always the ones that put in true dedication to create quality medicine for patients, not the mega corporations who just want a check.
