As a medical cannabis patient, I'm worried about proposed regulations such as increased testing, track-and-trace mandates, and potency caps—that threaten local jobs at small cannabis farms and production facilities. These rules will raise costs, jeopardize employment, and favor large, out-of-state corporations. We've seen local manufacturing decline before, leading to lower product quality and fewer community jobs. The existing system works well, supporting local businesses and workers. Please oppose these regulations to preserve our community's jobs and economic stability.
